Jim Doyle, Greenberg Traurig Shareholder, represents borrowers, financial sponsors, lenders and other capital providers in the structuring, negotiation, and documentation of a wide array of financing matters. Jim's practice includes acquisition financings, syndicated bank loans, direct lending, sustainability linked loans, debt restructurings, lease financings and a host of other commercial investment and lending matters on behalf of lenders, private credit providers, private equity sponsors and their portfolio companies, both in U.S. domestic and cross-border transactions. His clients work across industry verticals, including in infrastructure, healthcare, pharmaceuticals, venture capital, real estate development, software and technology, energy, oil and gas, government contracting, and retail. Jim assist clients throughout the duration of a corporate life cycle, from formation and initial investments through to mergers, acquisitions, restructurings and other transformative events.
